What is the National Conference for Teachers of English?

The NCTE is a Non-profit association, founded in 1984, which trains and supports all preschool, primary and secondary professionals and university students from public or private institutions from all over the country and the Central American basin.

2019 THEME:

The NCTE proudly invites all English teachers to its special one-day event, “Innovation Made Simple: Everyday Tech in the English Classroom,” to be held on January 25, 2019.

This time around, you will have the chance to explore innovative ways of incorporating and fostering the use of technology in your classroom. Our one-day conference will feature a group of experts who have been helping teaching professionals incorporate new and everyday technology in their lessons. Think about the idea of innovation and ask yourself the following questions:

- Are you certain that you are exploiting all of your students’ learning potential through the use of technology?
- How would you like to grow as provider of innovative learning experiences that facilitate the development of your students’ language skills?

Join us in this unique opportunity to learn how to use everyday technology in the English classroom.

Meet us at the Eugene O’Neill Theater. Space is limited so save the date and register soon!

Where is it going to be?
